In 2014 the Hugh Wooding Law School has made its inaugural participation in the 9th annual International Chamber of Commerce’s International Commercial Mediation Competition in Paris, held during the week of 7-13th February. In this prestigious competition, 66 teams of students (representing about 32 countries worldwide from Africa, Asia, North and South America, Europe and Australasia) competed, attracting more than 500 participants. Hugh Wooding’s team comprising Ronald J. Daniels and Yolander Persaud ably represented the school, placing among the 16 finalists, edging out 50 other eminent law schools/universities and/or business schools (including several multiple past winners). They received credits/comments for their amazing teamwork and lyrically articulate advocacy.
